The Court opened this morning at half-past ten. The com was well filled, notwithstanding the storminess of the weather; but in consequence of the unavoidable detention of a jr.s, through sickness in his family, the further trial of the case before the Court did not commence till 11 o'clock.

Affred E. Baker, Fire Marshal of New York, was then sworn—He said he was Fire Marshal of this city, and went to Deniny's piace of residence the next morning after the fire, resolving there about half an hour after daylight; he found an officer stationed there with a key, and a window broken out, as he supposed, by a fireman; he entered the store and went around the counter, he had a candle; on the right-hand side was a grocery counter, and behind this counter were shavings; they empled strongly of camphene of tarpentine, or fluid of that description; witness could trace the fire round the store; there were shavings touch the light-hand side of the store door as you entered; there were shavings all round the store; there were shavings there both homed and partially burned.

Witness also went ato the cellar: there, as the first witness said yesterday, he found in the square partition stuh, and in with camphene; shavings were studed in under the bins and casks.

The witness was here subjected to a long and minute cross examination by Mr. Busteen, in connection with the disarran, which elicited nothing to contradict materially what he had before said, or essentially weaken his testimony. The disarran presented a very ingenions exhibit of the premises, and the various marks, traces and discovations, produced by the fire throughout the building, all of which the witness testified to itemsby item, as corresponding precisely with the condition of the premises when the diagram was taken.

Charles Caudetty, agent to cent the premises where Deniny lived, sworm—Testified to but a liew important facts; one was that on the list of September last contrary to his usual custom. Deniny paid, in advance, for but a half a month's reut; and sucher was that there were six touants beside the prisoner in that bailding, all of whom had access to the cellar.

Officer Welr, recalled—Developed no new facts of executal ingentance.

Officer Welr, recalled—Developed no new facts of essential importance.

Honry O. Baker, brother of the Fire Marshal, and his assistant in the discharge of his duties, testified to having made an incentiony of the goods in the store a few days after the fire, and estimated their value, article by article. The bill containing the inventory was in the hands of the District-Attracy, and was allowed to go to the Jury.

Here the testimony for the presecution closed, and Mr. Fogarty, one of the counsel for the prisoner, asked the Court to set aside the cause for the people, on the ground that they had not made out an affirmative case.

The Court refused, and said there were facts already disclosed in the evidence that the Jury alone could pass upon. The counsel for the prisoner then asked that the Jury be now allowed to go and view the premises.

The Court, Mr. Hall assenting, said it would leave it to the Jury to any schelher they wished now to go and view the premises—the amagionity of the Jury.

A majority not appearing designors to go, thinking they analysis of it well enough at present, the cause was directed to process.

Mr. Konarty then opened the case for the prisoner in a speech decistood it well enough at accent, the cause was directed to process.

Mr. Negarity then opened the case for the prisoner in a speech of about an hour and a half to the Jury, in which he dilated at length upon the persecution his client had suffered in connection with "the hell-hounds of the press." For so long a speech it secured to us the time spent in delivering it was too valuable to be occupied with such a wilderness of cheap material.

The first withe so called by the dictense was Meliton Compbell who said he was a counselor at law in the City of New York and that he had examined the premises a month ago, and saw no marks of huming that could be readily discovered. But the fire baving taken place last September, and his examination belin, only a month ago, seemed, for the most part, to dispose of the value of this testimony.

Some half a dozen or more witnesses were then called, who successively testified to the good character of the defendent—that they bad never heard anything against him before the currence of the fire.

Several witnesses also testified that there was a considerable stock of goods in the store just before the fire.

and they had never heard anything against him before the oc-currence of the fite.

Several witnesses also testified that there was a considerable stock of goods in the store just before the fire.

Officer Forbes, sworm—Said be had been a policeman, but was not now; was at the premises the morning of the fire, be-taveen three and four o'clock; smiled no camphone.

Ann Smith, sworm—Said she was "a married woman this siven years;" lived in the third story of the same building occu-ningly beniny; lived there for ten months before the five, and lives there now; she said the back hall door had no fastening; ashe goods smell no camphone after the fire.

Thomas Smith, junkman by occupation—Said a person could get the ugh an open door of the building at any hour of the day or other.

get the ugh an open door of the building at any hour of the day or night.

Mr. Fagarty, one of the counsel for the prisoner, was the last citiness called, whose testimony amounted to nothing except in reply to a question by Mr. Hall, asking him whether this was not the first criminal cause he had ever been engaged in; to which he replied. "Yes, and he hoped it would be the last till the first of first January." This was understood to refer to the Recorder, who had reprimanded Mr. Fagarty pretty severely for answering a question, put by his associate counsel, while an objection against gives pending.

A good deal of feeling began to show itself to day between Mr. Busteed and the Recorder, who at last felt called upon, in justice to the diquity of his position, to command Mr. Husteed positively to sit down, espen he accordingly did, but immediately hopped up again.

But age acce wringes, it is understood, will be sworn by the defense—that is Judge Russell; so, after his testimony to use row morning, the annualing up to the Jury will commence.

for a fall, and the principal demand for stocks appears to be from the shorts. The public at large, who almost always go in as buyers, suffered so severely in the early part of the year, that they have, we are glad to know, abandoned the speculative arena, and left the street almost entirely to the two factions contending there. We hear of an instance where a party of four or five merchants on the west side of the town lost a purse of $100,000 in the course of two or three months, producing, in one instance at least, bankruptcy. A recent instance of a loss of over $80,000 in Eric purchases, is fresh in the public mind. There are doubtless hundreds of instances not mad public where entire ruin has been produced by stock speculations during the past six months, made by inexperienced parties, who were ignorant of the tactics of the street, and utterly ignorant of the posi-tion and true value of the stocks in which they operated. The transactions registered to-day add up 24,000 shares stocks and $100,000 State and Railroad bonds. An unusually large proportion of the sales were

From official tables made up at the Treasury De partment, Washington, it appears that the imports and exports at the six principal collection districts, namely, Boston, New-York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New-Orleans and San Francisco, for the first three quarters of the fiscal year, ending March 31, were as

We are glad to learn that the progress of the subcription to the Allentown Railroad is such as to make t almost certain that this exceedingly important link between New-York and the West will be commenced. "Letters received by the last mail from Europe confirm our previous advices that the purchases of foreign goods in England and France, on American account, are very limited for the Fall trade. Many orders have been counternanded. Great ceeplaints are making in those markets of the small American denand. The curtailment of orders is very great. Silk goods are the most depreciated. The demand has altogether ceased for the season. In Woolean, there is some small demand from clothing manufacturers, but prices from purchasers. The Boinestle Goods market has not suffered so much as the Foreign ver prices seem to be tottering, as the raw material is weak at present prices. The supply of goods is large, and showe the demand. There is an adverse demand, steadily kept up, which is supplied by those few bouses who always usalitating to the consumption is beginning to act favorably on production and importation."

Breadstuffs are withou much change but scarcely so firm, in consequence of the improvement in the weather. Sugar has declined wt., which is a favorable feature. In the Londen Money market the demand was still active, but there was a disposition to expect some relief soon. In the Foreign Exchanges this afternoon the rates for Amsterdem Humberg and Faris, were a shade lowerthan last post. According to the solvices from Paris today, it appears that the anexact on insure for prolonging the privileges of the Bank of France provides that the price at which the Bank are to take the 44 000,000 of Three per Cent Rents that are to be issued from time to time to represent their new capital, is to be required from time to time to represent their new capital, is to be required from time to time to represent their new capital, is to be required from time to time to represent their new capital, is to be required from time to time to represent their new capital, is to be required from time to time to represent their new capital, is to be required from time to time to represent their new capital, is to be required from time to time to represent their new capital, is to be required from time to time to represent their new capital, is to be required from time to time to represent the required from time to the first the Bank shall establish branches in all the departments where they do not already exist, and that the rate for advances to the Treasury is not to exceed $4$ cent. Finally, the most important amous the new arrangements is the privilege of issuing 56 frame index. The professed aim of this step is to exceed the species of the Bank, and cause it "to find its way back to the ceffers of the Bank," so that it may "increase in France, it will increase the quantity of specie available throughout the world, but if the Fronch financiers imagine it will permanently increase the supply in France relatively to other countries, they are under a delusion. It is true that the first effect of the issue will be to augment the circulation, but this angmentation will be followed by a rise in prices, which will operate on the excending the first process of this argregate being composed of a larger amount of paper and

The London News of May 30 says:

The funds to-day showed continued heaviness, and a further decline of † percent was established. The railway share market was also weaker this afternoon, the heavier stocks falling † to † percent. In view of the increased drain of alver to China, and of the continued stringency of the money market, speculators for higher prices in the various departments of the Stock Exchange continue to evince a disposition to close, or at least reduce, their accounts, in preference to paying the high rates of interest exacted at each esttlement. An unfavorable impression was produced to-day by the non-appearance of the government broker as a buyer of Exchequer Bills. Since the 8z inst. fally half a million of these securities have been absorbed by the Savings Bank Commissioners, the purchases being at the rate of $2,0000 per diem, without the intermission of a single day. Some symptoms of flatness in the continental exchanges also agarnavated the tendency toward depression to-day, as any unfavorable movement would promote the diversion to the Continent, in payment for silver, of at least sportion of the expected applies of gold.

In the Stock Exchange to day money was in active demand, and commanded 7 per cent an Government accurities. Although no reliance is to be placed upon romors that the shipments of silver by the Indua on the 4th of Jane will reach a million stering, the amount for which preparation is being made is sufficiently large to influence the money market, the arregements for the collection and transmission of $2,000 in treasure naturally inducing a considerable demand for accommodation. Some of the chief firms engaged in these operations upon stock in the Stock Exchange. In the discount market to-day the demand was gond, but less active than yesterior.

At Puris, to-day, the Three-per-Cent Rentes closed at 89.30 for money, and 69.20 for the approaching settlement, being 5 or 1 per cent lower than vesterday.
